

Pre-3 3rd Quarter Newsletter

I truly can't believe we have wrapped up our 3rd quarter of the school year already. The progress that our Pre3 students have made is so evident every day, in all the work and play that they do. They have all advanced in their preschool skills of coloring, cutting, gluing, matching, learning letter sounds and spelling their names. They have learned how to compromise with friends, have control of their bodies, and become independent little learners. I am amazed every day at the work they do and how they have all come into their own in a few short months. It is so rewarding to see the progress they have made before my eyes every month, and their pride in themselves is heartwarming.

January and February were filled with arctic animals, snowmen, and hearts for Valentine's day. March was an exciting month with all things St. Patrick's Day and Easter in a short time. Our students painted shamrocks, made leprechaun masks, and pots of gold. For Easter, they painted eggs, made large bunnies, and painted crosses for our beautiful Lent bulletin board. Over the next 3 months, which I am sure will fly by, we will continue to work on their academic, dramatic play and independence skills. I am confident that this class will thrive in Pre4 next year.

The next few months are going to fly by, and we will have a lot of fun events coming up. Thank you to all the Pre3 families for your constant support, and for aiding your child in their journey that is the first year of preschool. It is such an exciting time to watch them thrive and learn. As always, thank you for helping us cultivate your child into a lifelong learner.
